Deadline: 07 February 2025

Location: Alberton, South Africa

Air Liquide Communications Internship

Air Liquide is accepting applications for Communications Internship Programme.

We are seeking a motivated and detail-oriented Communications Support Assistant to join our dynamic AMEI communications team.

This entry-level position is ideal for a recent graduate looking to gain hands-on experience in communications, event support, and digital media. The successful candidate will play a key role in enhancing our employer branding and supporting various internal and external communication initiatives.

- Event Support: Assist in the planning and execution of events, including the design of invitations and managing follow-up communications.
- Digital Communication: Write and curate engaging external social media posts for AMEI events to enhance employer branding, as well as contribute to internal communication platforms.
- Media Creation: Develop communication materials such as presentations, posters, and banners to support various initiatives.
- Platform Updates: Work on updating and maintaining digital communication platforms, including the intranet, website, and other relevant spaces.
- Campaign and Project Support: Collaborate with the communications team on various campaigns and projects as assigned, providing necessary support and input.

Educational requirements

- Recent graduate with a diploma or degree in Communications, Public Relations, Administration, or a related field.

Experience

- 0-2 years of relevant experience in communications, marketing, or event planning is preferred but not mandatory.
